Union Shield now adorns cent

By Gary Clothier
UNITED FEATURE SYNDICATE

Question: Has the U.S. Mint changed the back of the Lincoln penny? I just saw one, and it has a shield instead of the Lincoln Memorial.

—J.K., Andover, Mass.

Answer: Yes, it has been changed. Introduced in 1909, the Lincoln Cent featured a pair of wheat ears on the reverse. In 1959, the Lincoln Memorial replaced the wheat.

Officially launched on Feb. 11, 2010, the new Union Shield Cent is now the permanent replacement.

Question: I'm looking at a photo of a sign that reads "Sheriff Hutton." From the position of the sign, it appears to be taken in a country where you drive on the opposite side of the road. Can you shed any light on what this picture is about?

—C.F., Stockton, Calif.

Answer: Sheriff Hutton is a village located in North Yorkshire, England. Long before the Romans conquered England, the area was inhabited. In the 1100s, the village received the name Sheriff Hutton. The Sheriff prefix comes from Bertram de Bulmer, the sheriff of York in 1115. Hutton comes from Old English "hoh," meaning a piece of land, and "tun," a farmstead.

Question: I saw a piece of farm equipment with the name Laverda on the side. I'm familiar with names such as John Deere and, well, maybe that's it. (I'm a city gal.) Where is this company based?

Answer: An Italian firm, Laverda has manufactured farm equipment for many years. The name comes from founder Pietro Laverda (1845-1930).

SCIENCE FAIR WINNER

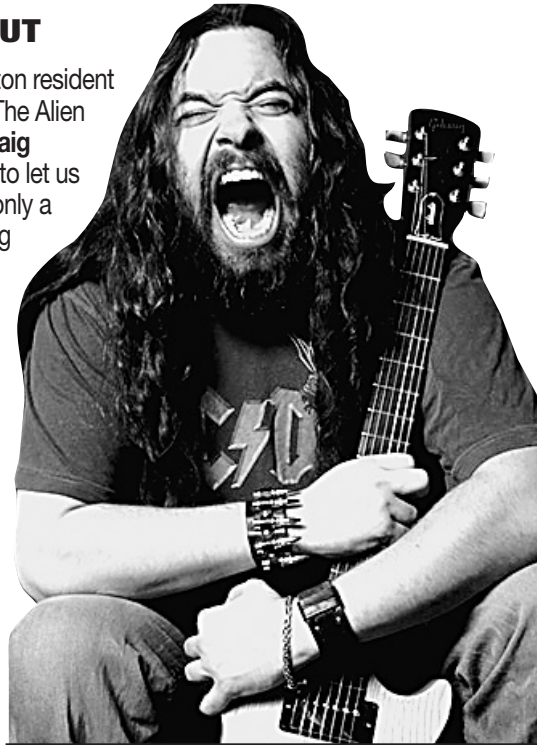

Chapel Hill-Chauncy Hall School held its annual science fair on March 5. Marcus Leite, right, son of Vanessa Leite, of Stoughton, won first place in the Ninth Grade and ELL Science Division for his project on the trebuchet. Marcus was assisted in this project by Eric VonHippel, left, a freshman from Cambridge.

LEARNING EXPERIENCE

The Wareham public school system is expanding its six-year Sister City Project with a comprehensive global education incentive. This project continues with the Cape Verdean islands of Sao Filipe and Santa Cruz and partners with the New Bedford school system. The project attempts to teach students about the importance of a global education. Teachers and students from all participating schools are communicating through Skype and other online technology. During the fall of 2009, educators from Cape Verde traveled to Wareham, New Bedford and Brockton. Educators planned together to continue the project during their visit. In April, educators from Wareham and New Bedford will travel to Cape Verde to continue the exchanges. During the visit, students will also continue their conversation about culture and stereotypes in another Skype forum. Wareham schools have established a Global Education Team to ensure that schools are developing school activities to encourage students to learn from each others' culture.

ROCKING OUT

Former Brockton resident and front man of The Alien Blakk, Joshua Craig dropped us a line to let us know he has not only a new album coming out next month, but has also penned a book on how to unleash your inner guitar hero. The metal band's second CD, nearly three years in the making, is entitled "Bekoming" and features Mark Hamill of "Star Wars" fame in a voiceover on the title track. The book, "Advanced Lead Guitar Concepts: Mindset & Theologies in Improvisation," totals 140 pages and comes with an instructional CD/DVD. Craig, son of Ann and the late Max M. Podolsky, taught himself to play guitar at 14 and graduated from Brockton High in 1992. After graduating from Boston's Berklee College of Music, Craig moved to Los Angeles and went on to become an in-house musician for Aftermath Records, working with such artists as Dr. Dre, Christina Aguilera, Coolio, KISS and White Zombie. He lives in Scottsdale, Ariz., but continues to work in Los Angeles, scoring music for video games when he's not touring with his band. For more information about the band and the book, go to www.thealienblakk.com.

RAISED VOICES

Stonehill College's Joseph W. Martin Institute for Law and Society will host a performance of "And Still We Rise," an authentic documentary theater humanizing the lives of those touched by incarceration. The event will take place in the Martin Institute Auditorium at 7 p.m. on April 6. There is plenty of free parking in Lot 11 behind the Sports Complex with a short walk to Martin Institute. For more information, please go to www.stonehill.edu/martin.xml

TODAY IN HISTORY

Today is Wednesday, March 24, the 83rd day of 2010. There are 282 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight

1980: One of El Salvador's most respected Roman Catholic Church leaders, Archbishop Oscar Arnulfo Romero, was shot to death by a sniper as he celebrated Mass in San Salvador. (Romero was assassinated after urging the Salvadoran military to halt death squads that had killed thousands of suspected guerrillas and leftist opponents of the government.)

On this date

1765: Britain enacted the Quartering Act, requiring American colonists to provide temporary housing to British soldiers.

Thought for Today

"The history of almost every civilization furnishes examples of geographical expansion coinciding with deterioration in quality."
— Arnold Joseph Toynbee, English historian (1889-1975).
